To Whom it May Concern:

Elizabeth McMeekin is a student in my Introductory Statistics course. She is an A+ student in a demanding course, with a current course average of 100%. She shows great academic and personal skills.

In my brief engagement with her, I have come to believe that she will be a good addition to the nursing program.

Elizabeth is a delightful student, cheerful and very personable. She has both excellent motivation and strong understanding of difficult concepts that have arisen in the course. Besides that, she is very mature and self-assured.

I consider it a privilege to have had a student like Elizabeth and I wholeheartedly recommend her to the nursing program. Her future as a nurse looks very promising to me.

Sincerely,

Sheldon B. Kovitz
